

Living and Working in Moose Jaw

Concerned with the high cost of living or the high price of real estate? Does driving in bumper to bumper traffic hold little appeal? Ever wonder what it would be like to leave for work 10 minutes before starting time and get there five minutes early or be able to go home for lunch every day? What about getting to know your neighbours and people in your community? Imagine picking up your kids from school, dropping them off at dance class or a soccer practice, all during your 15-minute coffee break and still being able to return to work to finish off a project? What about actually having coffee breaks or having the time to attend your child's sporting event, music recital or school function right after school?

Experience the lifestyle and benefits of living in a smaller community and working for a dynamic, growing and environmentally-minded organization. With our Head Office in Moose Jaw, our priority focuses on protecting the quality and quantity of water in Saskatchewan.

Moose Jaw, a community of 35,000 residents, is a great place to live, work and raise a family. It's a safe, friendly, relaxed community with high quality services including post-secondary education and health care facilities. Renowned as a Saskatchewan tourist destination, Moose Jaw embraces arts and culture and offers a wide variety of sports, recreational and leisure activities for everyone. Located in central Saskatchewan, Moose Jaw is 20 minutes away from beautiful Buffalo Pound Lake and two hours from Lake Diefenbaker. You can drive to Regina in 40 minutes and Saskatoon in a little over two hours.

The Saskatchewan Watershed Authority affords our employees an excellent quality of life, competitive compensation, and outstanding benefits. We also recognize the need for balance between work and family, value and support employment equity, and are committed to creating a respectful, diverse work environment.

So, if you're tired of the rat race? Come to Moose Jaw. Sure, we're smaller than some. But we're more exciting than most. Where else can you find a casino, mineral spa, riverboat tour, WHL hockey and the legend of Al Capone all within walking distance of each other?

Choose a rewarding career in a wonderful community, where your daily commute is faster than the time it takes to buy your morning coffee.

Will you get to see an actual moose here? Probably not. But you will have time to see your family.
